

Course Code and Name: MSJ2102- Convergence Communication 1

Project Name: Karma's Child (Individual Report)

Semester: Fall 2023

Project Description: During the Fall 2023 semester, I worked as a member of the "Karma's Child" group for MSJ2102: Convergence Communication 1 at the University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh (ULAB). Our project, "Dress Making," promoted ecosystem restoration through sustainable fashion and wearable art created from recycled materials. We designed three costumes to illustrate the harmful effects of plastic pollution, environmental degradation, and related health issues. Using creative fashion design, a live exhibition, qualitative observation, and audience interviews, we explored how art can communicate environmental messages effectively. The project demonstrated how recycled materials can be transformed into meaningful creative works that raise public awareness and encourage sustainable practices to protect the environment.

Project Justification: This project addresses the growing problem of environmental pollution caused by plastic waste, poor waste management, and unsustainable human activities. I chose this topic because I wanted to explore how creative fashion and visual storytelling can raise awareness about environmental protection. By transforming recycled materials into wearable art, the project highlights the harmful effects of pollution while encouraging people to adopt more sustainable habits. It demonstrates how creative communication can inspire positive social change and promote environmental responsibility. Through this work, I hope to encourage individuals, communities, and future communication projects to use art and creativity as effective tools for protecting nature and building a more sustainable future.

Theme

CI theme: (Write about the semester theme 'ecosystem restoration' in your language.) (50-150 words)	Ecosystem restoration means assisting in the recovery of ecosystems that have been degraded or destroyed, as well as conserving the ecosystems that are still intact. Healthy ecosystems, with richer biodiversity, yield greater benefits such as more fertile soils, bigger yields of timber and fish, and larger stores of greenhouse gasses. Ecological restoration aims to recreate, initiate, or accelerate the recovery of an ecosystem that has been disturbed. Disturbances are environmental changes that alter ecosystem structure and function. Common disturbances include logging, damming rivers, intense grazing, hurricanes, floods, and fires.
Group/Individual theme: (What was your theme? Why did you take this theme?) (150-250 words)	We want to present in our life how we are harmed by pollution. In the first dress we explained about the life of man. How were people used in the early days? How are you doing now? Dependence on plastic products ranging from plastic to polythene. In the second dress we explained nature. How nature is ending up being polluted. And in the dress chapter we tried to present a sick person. Who is suffering because of all this pollution. Our aim was to highlight what is happening in our society and how our environment is ending up being polluted. How we are polluting our environment. And how nature is dying day by day due to this pollution. And how we are affected by this pollution. We are trying to highlight the various diseases that we are suffering due to this pollution.
Artwork
Layout & Plan: (Attach the image of your layout) (Why and what kind of fashion did you want to do?) (150-250 words)	Our first dress to reveal the human race, this dress is made in two parts. In the first part, chatter sacks have been used. In the second part polythene, plastic, newspaper, gloves etc. materials are used. In the second dress we made a saree by adding pieces of fabric. And the last dress we made using an old mosquito net and a packet of chips. And we tried to give the first character a weapon like an axe. For which I tried to make him a devil. And in the hands of the second character, we put a candle in a little aquarium, which reveals that our environment is slowly disappearing.

Production: (Please write about the production process of your work from the beginning including materials you used, the place you worked at, any obstacles you faced, any improvisation you did, and the result came out at the end.) (Please attach some images of your production process.) (300-400 words)	We had to face many problems to collect the materials for the dress. Since they are garbage, they have to be collected and we were able to buy them with many problems. It was most difficult to collect our old mosquito nets of white color. We couldn't find it in anyone's house, nor did anyone we know have it. After much searching, Pronoti is found at her aunt's house. We have done most of the dress work at home. We did the final dress complete work at Pronoti's house. Our dresses didn't turn out exactly as we wanted them to. Rather, it has become much more beautiful than that. And after changing the design of the dress, the change of the dress has made the dresses more beautiful.
Exhibition
Exhibition: (Where was the show, how was that platform, who were the spectators, was any other platform better for the show, and why?) (150 -250 words) (Please attach some images/screenshots of your final work and show)	Our program is conducted at ULAB's permanent campus Mohammadpur Dhaka. Our teacher was present here as a visitor, a fashion designer. Our classmates, seniors and juniors. Also there were people from Somoy TV and ULAB TV who covered our program. And our parents and brothers and sisters were also with us. Many also invited their relatives.

Project Learnings and Outcomes: This project strengthened my research, communication, and creative problem-solving skills by teaching me how to develop a communication concept, organize project activities, and evaluate audience responses. It improved my understanding of the research process, from planning and material collection to exhibition design and feedback analysis. Through this work, I gained deeper knowledge of ecosystem restoration, plastic pollution, sustainable fashion, and the role of convergence media in environmental communication. The project also enhanced my practical skills in creating designs from recycled materials, conducting interviews, and analyzing public opinions. By connecting creative ideas with real social issues, I developed stronger critical thinking, teamwork, and analytical abilities. Overall, this experience helped me become a more creative, responsible, and socially conscious media communicator capable of promoting environmental awareness through innovative visual communication.
